ASSUMPTION Catholic School

March 22nd, 2019

Dear Families,

Practicing silence in our busy lives is very difficult; not only because of the constant interruptions but also because it is hard to motivate ourselves to “listen” in silence. St. Augustine of Hippo (354-430) said that there are three types of prayer people: slaves, merchants and sons.

- A slave will act out of fear, saying “I will pray to God because I am afraid of being punished”.
- A merchant will come to God to make a deal, “Heal this person, solve this problem, bring me peace and comfort, and I will serve you”.
- A son will say to God, “I will pray to you, I will listen to you, I will serve you, simply because you are worthy of being loved.”

I challenge everyone to pray as a son (or a daughter) of God, and with dedicated practice, we can all improve our ability to quiet our hearts and minds in order to hear His voice.
